

Bracknell Forest Natural History Society

A society for everyone interested in nature and its conservation

Unravelling the story of an Alien Invader Monday 18th June: 7.30-9.30pm

Prof. Helen Roy was recently awarded an MBE 'for services to Biodiversity Research and Science Communication' and has, for many years, been studying the non-native Harlequin Ladybird to understand its ecological effect on other ladybirds. From a mobile phone app to track the aliens to a series of popular 'Citizen Science' information-gathering projects, Helen has helped shape national conversations about conservation.
